Building on the Foundation of Your Contribution:

As one of the only annual events that bring together both undergraduate and graduate students alongside industry representatives and academic staff, GeoREX provides an important link between students and industry where ideas can be openly shared and valuable discussions had. To maintain this valuable link and to enable for its continual growth, your sponsorship dollars are vital for the symposiums future. Funding will be used to support presentation and writing workshops offered to undergraduate and graduate students, to fund the direct costs associated with the running of the symposium, and many other small things.

With your continued support GeoREX will be able to continue to flourish, offering a unique environment where geoscience students can present their research to peers, university faculty, and industry representatives.

Expanding the Community:

Regardless of sponsorship commitment, GeoREX would like to extend a warm welcome to any industry representatives, staff, or alumni that would like to attend the GeoREX Symposium.
